

How to play

1. Pick 10 cards from your deck of 50
2. Place a card to start off
3. When your turn, attack and draw again from your deck
4. When the opponent's puppy is down, you'll get another chance to attack the player themselves. Each player has 1000 HP
5. If your puppy is down and it's your turn, place another puppy from your hand
6. First player to get the opponent's HP to 0 wins!

Creating cards

There are many rules when creating cards, for example the max HP a puppy can have is 100. Another is that the max a regular attack can do is -60 HP F.O (for opponent). Also a card can only have 2 attacks / abilities. Oh and of course the card has to be a dog. The max a pup can cure is 30 HP. Also created cards can't have special moves. And at the top left corner, it should have the HP of the pup. At the top right, it should have the type of pup it is. (The types are Attack, Defence, or Mystery. For Attack put a sword, for defense, a shield, and mystery, a question mark.) Also created cards can't have Special Moves. The last rule is that the cards must be 583 by 767. After that send it in and the staff will see it and will see if it follows all the rules or not, if it does, that card is made legal to use in the game.

Here's an example of a card

HP: 100

L?

---

Doggo!

---

● Kick: -60

● Tail Wag: +20

More Rules

By now, you've seen how to play and also the rules to creating cards, but there are a lot more rules to playing the game. Like for example, you can only use your S.M (Special Move) 2 times in a game. Another one is that you cannot use cards that are not in your deck. (A deck is 50 cards from your collection.) So those are the main ones. You also not allowed to use the same attack more than twice. You can use up to 3 puppies at a time, but you can only use 1 of their abilities at a time. Right now we are working on more rules and things, so make sure to check the website regularly for updates and other changes.

The difference between creating cards and buying them

The difference is that when you create a card there are certain limitations. When you buy them, they are pre-made and also have special abilities and powers, they are better to use in the game. But it's always your choice.

Tips and Tricks

A good tip is to save your Special Move for the time where your losing. Another is to always put your best cards in your deck. Also try to use the cards with the best attacks, defenses, or abilities. If you want more tips and tricks, make sure to check this website regularly, we update it a lot.

Things your allowed to do

First of all, your allowed to switch decks anytime, as long as it's not while your playing. Your also allowed to not have to use cards that cost money. Something else your allowed to do is that you can place an extra card for protection to your HP. And that's about it for the Battle Puppies Guild Book for now.

Rarity

At the bottom right corner of your cards you might notice a diamond, silver, or gold bone. Those bones represent the rarity or the card. The silver bone means rare, the gold is ultra rare, and the diamond is legendary.